DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 2, line 2 – it is unclear how the rail is “a tube” when the rail has a longitudinal slot and the rail does not have a circumferential outer surface.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Aab et al.

In regard to claim 1, Aab et al. discloses a device 73 (for holding hose clamps is considered an intended use recitation and as given little patentable weight as long as the prior art device contains all of the structural limitations of the present invention and is capable of performing the intended task), the device comprising:

a rail 73 having a longitudinal slot 75 configured to receive a clamping part via an open end of the slot, wherein the longitudinal slot has an edge 74 configured to support a projection.

In regard to claim 2, the rail is a tube having an inner side 74 projecting inwardly into a corner formed between the projection and an outer end section of the clamping part adjoining the projection.

In regard to claim 3, the tube has an open cross-sectional area matching a contour of the clamping part and the projection when viewed in an axial direction of the hose clamp.

5. Claims 1 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Richards.

In regard to claim 1, Aab et al. discloses a device (for holding hose clamps is considered an intended use recitation and as given little patentable weight as long as the prior art device contains all of the structural limitations of the present invention and is capable of performing the intended task), the device comprising:

a rail G having a longitudinal slot configured to receive a clamping part via an open end of the slot, wherein the longitudinal slot has an edge 2 configured to support a projection.

In regard to claim 6, the open end of the longitudinal slot is closeable (via 5) and wherein the longitudinal slot has a closed end 6 opposite the open end.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claim 4 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Aab et al.

In regard to claim 4, Aab et al. discloses a device as described above, but does not specifically disclose the material of the rail. However, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to make the rail out of plastic because the selection of a known material based upon its suitability for the intended use is a design consideration within the skill of the art.

In re Leshin, 227 F.2d 197, 125 USPQ 416 (CCPA 1960).

Allowable Subject Matter

8. Claim 5 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

9. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Pally et al., Walsh et al., Sauer, Sterrett et al., Takahashi et al. and Elliott all disclose similar devices common in the art.
